Well I bought Sony STR-DE197 yesterday after reading many reviews here and on other sites. This is my first receiver of this type, but I do know how to recognize decent quality sound, as in the past I have always relied on my computer for music, with a yamaha sound card and a pair of audio-technica headphones.

My Sony STR-DE597 receiver is less than 6 months old. It worked great for about 3 months, then it continually goes into protect mode after about 20 minutes of use. This will happen no matter what input I'm using, either an optical or an analog (RCA cable) connection, and will even happen when I use the FM tuner.
