I need to remove my starter from my boat 24' Trophy with the 5.7 Mercruiser. I just need to know how i should go about performing this task, do i need to remove the distributor coil, turn the batteries to off, etc. Also I can not even see the starter, have to feel for it. Any tips on removing the starter bolts? Thanks Bart

If all of the above looks good, you might have a bad Starter Slave Solenoid or even a bad Starter Motor. The Slave Solenoid is a small bracket mounted solenoid usually located near the Breaker or Main Harness Plug. This is the solenoid that everybody knows to jump if the starter won't crank the engine. Careful!

Anyone know how hard it is to replace a starter for a mercury 4.3 v-6 engine? Also, does anyone know where to pick up a starter for a good price? How common is it to damage the teeth of the flywheel if the starter goes bad? Had a marine mechanic tell me the mercurisers are bad for breaking teeth on the flywheel if the starter goes bad.
